Municipal Pool

No Curb Market Yet
Wise-Cracks

After many years of agitation Hope's city-owned swimming pool is a reality—a $45,000 gem which will draw thousands to Fair Park in the years to come.

On an inside page of today's edition you will find the pictures and story of an endeavor to build a public pool here about 11 years ago—an expedition that went to Monticello, Ark., and came back with definite plans. The plan never quite came off because federal participation collapsed.

But 11 years later Hope has a pool that it built all by itself—and it didn't cost the property owners a dime. It was paid for out of the operations of the municipal water & light plant.

This writer was a leader in the long fight to obtain the swimming pool. As we see it there are only two reasons for a city engaging in the electric power business: (1) To relieve property owners of part or all of the cost of running the municipal government, and (2) to furnish the people with public improvements they might not otherwise be able to afford.

Property owners usually look after their tax interests. But unless some one speaks out hard and forcibly the No. 2 factor, public improvements, is often disregarded. Others spoke out eloquently for the city participation that led to construction of our fine football stadium; today we have the swimming pool—and pray that tomorrow we shall have a big field house-auditorium.

Remember the formula for fair operation of a municipal plant town—a dollar for the relief of taxpayers, and a dollar for the benefit of the public at large.

More than a year ago 13 of us put up $300 apiece for a tentative Curb Market site beyond the old auto yard on the west approach of U. S. 67. The venture was launched by Vincent Foster, but last night the sponsors' checks were returned to us with the notation that the private project had been abandoned.

The city, it is understood, has made temporary arrangements for use of the same property as a watermelon loading yard. That will help get the visiting melon trucks off the downtown streets. And yet, Hope still needs a Curb Market—befitting any city that depends as heavily as we do on the trade of farmers for miles around.

During the war Roy Anderson got out a frisky News Letter which was famous among all the service men from Hempstead county. A notation from Roy indicates he is still pursuing his exchanges and clipsheds. He doesn't claim the following are original, but they were good enough to be published somewhere some place.

Shoulder Strap—A piece of ribbon worn to keep an attraction from becoming a sensation.

Middle-Age—When a man stops wondering how he can dodge temptations and begins wondering if he's missing any.

Testifies U. S. Officials Are Communists

Washington, Aug. 3 —(AP)—Whittaker Chambers, who said he was a Communist from 1924 to 1937, testified today that the Red "underground" then included Alger Hiss, state department official, and Nathan Witt, attorney for the National Labor Relations Board.

Chambers testified under oath before the House Un-American activities committee, which is investigating charges of Soviet spying in this country.

Across the Capitol, a Senate committee also was continuing hearings on alleged Communist spying. There, Chairman Fergusson (R-Mich.) protested the committee's failure thus far to receive information it has asked from the Commerce Department about William W. Remington.

Fergusson called it an administration-imposed "handicap" on congressional efforts to get to the bottom of the spy story.

Chambers, now senior editor of Time Magazine, said in a prepared statement read to the House committee that he had "served in the underground, chiefly in Washington."

He said there was an underground organization developed, to the best of his knowledge, by Hiss, one of the sons of the Communist leader known as "Mother Bloor."

"I knew it at its top level, a group of seven or so men, from among whom in late years, some members of Miss (Elizabeth T.) Bentley's organization were apparently recruited."

"The head of the underground group was Nathan Witt, an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board. Later John Abt became the leader."

"Lee Pressman was also a member of this group, as was Alger Hiss, who, as a member of the State Department later organized the conference at Jim Bay in Oak, San Francisco and the U. S. side of the Yalta conference."

Miss Bentley, mentioned by Chambers, is the young woman who told a sensational story last week of collecting information for the Russians from scores of government employees during the war.

She and Chambers both describe themselves as former Communists who turned against the party and went to federal authorities with their stories.

Chambers said he himself reported to Washington authorities what he knew of Communist infiltration of the government two days after Hitler and Stalin signed their non-aggression pact nine years ago.

Hope's $45,000 Municipal Swimming Pool in Fair Park Which Will Be Dedicated With Public Program at 8 o'Clock Wednesday Night

Pool 50 by 120, Is Purified in Entirety Every 8 Hours by $15,000 Filtering Plant

Hope's $45,000 municipal swimming pool in Fair park which opened to the public last Saturday will be dedicated by Mayor Lyle Brown and the city council at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, August 4.

The initial contract to B. W. Edwards was for $35,000, with additional expenses for the bathhouse and filter plant. The pool is 50 by 120 feet, with depth ranging from 30 inches to 10 feet (Fair park has a separate wading pool for the smallest children). The pool's capacity is 225,000 gallons, which a $15,000 filter plant purifies in its entirety every eight hours. It takes a 10 horsepower motor to operate the filter.

Hope's new pool meets all sanitation requirements of state and national health authorities, and it is possible to see a dime on the bottom through 10 feet of water. Purification is achieved through the filtering system rather than by a chemical change of water. In a normal summer's operation the water will be changed only two or three times—and that due only to the excessive loading of purifying chemicals.

The bathhouse and entrance are at the east or shallow end of the pool. The bathhouse is built of tile, with concrete floor, built-up roof, steel windows, and with complete dressing rooms for men and women. It has bathing suits for rent and other accessories.

A cyclone fence surrounds the entire pool. There is a broad concrete promenade around the pool inside the fence, and just outside the fence on the south side the city expects later to build bleachers that cover a view of the diving board at the west end—where water contests will be held periodically.

Hope was offered this year's southwest Arkansas district swimming tournament, but the bathhouse wasn't ready—and the town went to Magnolia. Another year Hope is almost certain to get this major event, because of the city's central location and the unmatched facilities now available for water sports in Fair park.

The pool is completely equipped for night events, having four light bulbs each carrying three 500-watt bulbs.

Bernadotte Trying to Lay Foundation for Lasting Peace

Jerusalem, Aug. 3 —(UP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, will meet Jewish and Arab representatives here today in an effort to lay the foundation for permanent peace in the Holy Land.

Bernadotte arrived in Jerusalem yesterday from Amman, Transjordan, and spent the night in the Mount Scopus area, virtually the only United Nations-controlled area in Palestine.

The Swedish count entered the Holy City amid bitter Jewish charges that Arabs were not living up to the terms of the truce.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok warned the Arab states that "there will be a day of reckoning" for alleged anti-Jewish incidents in Cairo and "other deprivations and miseries to which Jews in Arab countries have been subjected."

Meeting With Stalin Appears Favorable

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Aug. 3 (AP)—Western diplomats looked to Washington, London and Paris today for a new move to settle East-West differences which they now have taken up personally with Prime Minister Stalin.

Stalin received envoys of the United States, Britain and France at the Kremlin last night and talked with them for two hours and 15 minutes. The conversation concerned particularly the prospects for a settlement of the Berlin crisis.

Details were shrouded in official secrecy, but a high authority said progress is being made in this Soviet capital.

Wary-eyed but in high spirits, U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chateigneau and Frank Roberts, special British representative, worked until nearly 4 a. m. on reports which by now should be under consultation by their governments. They awaited further instructions.

When these instructions arrive—and only then, responsible quarters intimated—will the next steps be known.

This correspondent, who has reported Kremlin conferences with foreign diplomats for seven years, recalls no time when so little was said after a meeting—and when the spirit of those concerned seemed so high.

The three Western envoys are not even commenting on how Stalin looked. It is obvious that the talk given to basic things that are contributing to the tense international situation and that all are being careful to do or say nothing to interrupt the present trend.

Prices Resume Upward Trend

Chicago, Aug. 3 —(UP)—Prices on meat and other foods appeared to have resumed their upward spiral today but consumers were still feeling their resistance to hold the line.

Retailers predicted that within a week to 10 days they would be forced to raise their prices in line with advances at such markets and wholesale houses yesterday.

However, said such increases would simply force them to buy less meat.

Market experts here warned that record high prices at markets yesterday might be exceeded this week due to the "law of averages" pressure to reduce living costs.

Hogs set a new all-time high of $32 a hundredweight at Cleveland and topped the record of $30 at Omaha. Wholesale meat prices began climbing at New York after a 10-day lull.

Chicago live piglets went to $21.10, topping the all-time high of $21 and last Friday and hit $21 at Indianapolis to equal the record there for the third straight day.

McMath Accepts Holt's Challenge on Race Issue

By JIM THOMSSON

Little Rock, Aug. 3 —(P)—Sidney McMath said today he would accept Jack Holt's challenge on the racial question when he takes his campaign to the heart of east Arkansas tonight.

McMath, young Hot Springs prosecutor, who led the ticket for governor in the preferential Democratic primary, speaks tonight in Osceola, Mississippi county.

His runoff rival, former Arkansas Attorney General Jack Holt, has made the civil rights issue one of the principle issues in his campaign and has posed several questions for McMath dealing with the race issue.

McMath said this morning that he would tell the people of Mississippi county tonight that Holt "is a man who has had no experience whatever in dealing with the Negro people, but comes over here and tries to frighten you by telling you that unless he is elected governor the Negroes are going to take over the government."

McMath added that he would restate his civil rights position as outlined in statements and speeches yesterday. "I intend to tell the people of Mississippi county tonight that Holt's entire approach to this problem is absurd and ridiculous."

Holt, aided by his erstwhile rival, James (Uncle Mac) MacKrell, will be at Conway this afternoon and Russellville tonight.

The two gubernatorial candidates held rallies within shouting distance of each other at Fordyce last night.

Truman Votes in Missouri Primary

By ERNEST B. VACCRO

Independence, Mo., Aug. 3 —(P)—President Truman voted in Missouri's primary election today, before flying back to Washington, for a first-hand report on diplomatic efforts to preserve peace.

The neighborhood roosters were still crowing when the Gray-haired chief executive left his bed to cast his Democratic ballot in the township precinct at the Memorial building.

He walked the block and a half to the voting booth.

The president walked into the voting precinct at 7:32 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

As he left, he told reporters, "I'm going to eat breakfast as quick as I can and take off."

He started the return trip to Washington in his DC-6. "The plane took off from the Fairfax airport in Kansas City, Kas."

He declined to say how he voted in the primary.

He was asked if he had a luncheon appointment at the White House.

"I might have," he said. However, in reply to another question he said he didn't have one with Secretary of State Marshall.

The president, his associates said, expects to get a first-hand full in on diplomatic developments at Moscow aimed at easing international tension.

Mr. Truman and Margaret did not vote with the president, Margaret, particularly, is opposed to his early rising, since they are remaining in Independence, they planned to vote later.

"I wonder which ballot you want," asked Mrs. Emma Flowers, a Republican judge, as Mr. Truman stepped up to receive a ballot.

The president laughed.

"I wonder."

He voted in the five-cornered Fourth District Democratic congressional race to choose a nominee for the seat of retiring C. Jasper Bell, a Democrat.

As he dropped his ballot into the box, he told reporters, inquiring as to how he voted, "I don't have to tell that."

Szakasits Takes Over Presidency in Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 3 —(AP)—Arpad Szakasits, a former stone mason, journalist and poet, was elected president of Hungary today. The vote by Parliament was unanimous.

He succeeds Zoltan Tildy, who resigned last Friday, a few hours after his son-in-law, Dr. Viktor Csoranyi, was arrested and charged with espionage and treason.

When Imre Nagy, speaker of Hungary's Parliament, announced that Szakasits was the only candidate for the presidency, members of the Democratic groups walked out. They returned to their seats after the speaker declared Szakasits elected.

Szakasits, who was nominated by the United (Communist-Ruled) Labor Party, formerly was deputy Premier, under Premier Lajos Dinnyes.

Home Comforts Disappear in Luxurious Houses

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 3 — (UP) — The comforts of home were fast disappearing today from millionaire Joseph Bancroft's luxurious Westchester mansion where Doris Furst, the auburn-haired widow from Texas, was staging a sit-down. The latest move by the wealthy manufacturer was to cut off the electricity, depriving the 24-year-old ex-model of lights, cooking facilities, refrigeration, radio and television. But Mrs. Furst reiterated her determination to sit it out until Bancroft makes a settlement for her unborn child, which she claims he fathered. The child is expected in November.

Water was the only utility left in the house. Bancroft previously tried to have that shut off, but Mrs. Furst's attorney, Arnos S. Basel, protested to the health department that it would endanger the health of a pregnant woman.

Search Spreads for Escaped Convicts

Tucker Prison Farm, Aug. 3-4
Three convicts drove away from this prison yesterday, and today were the objects of a widespread manhunt.

The three are George Cason, 27; John V. Fee, 30; and Alfred ("Bear") Burton, 26. Cason and Fee were trustees. Cason had been assigned a truck in which to haul materials used in making concrete blocks with which new buildings at the prison are being constructed. It was in this vehicle that he and the others fled. Cason, formerly of Camden, was serving a seven-year sentence for grand larceny from Jefferson county. Fee was under a five-year sentence for burglary of the Johnson county sheriff's office. He was listed as from Tulsa, Okla. Burton, from North Little Rock, was serving a 10-year sentence from Pulaski county for robbery.

Harvest Headaches

One of the wisest and wildest men who ever lived said that a second marriage was the final triumph of hope over experience. Be that as it may, it is undeniably true that whether a marriage is successful or not there is something about it that seems to unfit men and women for the single life.

This is particularly the case with men, for while the average husband does not go about boasting of his conjugal felicity and telling how he loves his dear Maria, if he loses her, he is a lost soul. Even if a man's marriage has been unhappy, if his wife dies he has a sort of post-mortem romance in which he glorifies her and looks forward to remarriage as to Paradise regained.

So it is no wonder that the bereaved widower is confused and bewildered and lonesome and doesn't know what to do with himself. Hence he remarries, and generally he has sense enough to marry in his own age class some woman with whom he is well acquainted and who is a good cook. This makes a second marriage a preferred risk, for even the dumbest of us learn by experience, and the man who has dealt with a first wife's peculiarities knows how to walk high, wide and handsome around Number Two's little ways. Likewise the woman who has dealt with a grouchy husband has the technique of how to butter up his successor and make him eat out of her hand.

Husband Often Tactless

Although second husbands are apt to be improvements on first ones, there is one place in which some lamentably fall down. Even the most intelligent men often do not sense how wife Number 2 feels about her predecessor.

Even a congenial, idiot, one would think, would have enough brains to realize that a second wife

But here, in the chart at right, you'll get a good idea of the gasoline economy you can expect from a new Packard... thanks to Packard's new "free-breathing" engine design.

These figures—taken from a survey among hundreds of new Packard owners from coast to coast—cover the highway performance of the 130-horsepower Packard Eight, with overdrive. (Packard overdrive is optional equipment, at moderate extra cost. It is being ordered on a majority of the new Packards.)

Polio Cure Accounts Are Premature

Washington, Aug. 3 — (UP) — Published accounts of a drug which reportedly combats infantile paralysis in its early stages were called "unfortunately premature" today by a U. S. Public Health Service expert.

Dr. Leonard Karel, of the service's research grants and fellowships section said that the drug — a sulfa derivative — appears to have helped some polio sufferers.

"But it is too early to make any definite claims for this treatment," he said. "We are not positive that the patients treated with this drug actually were suffering from polio."

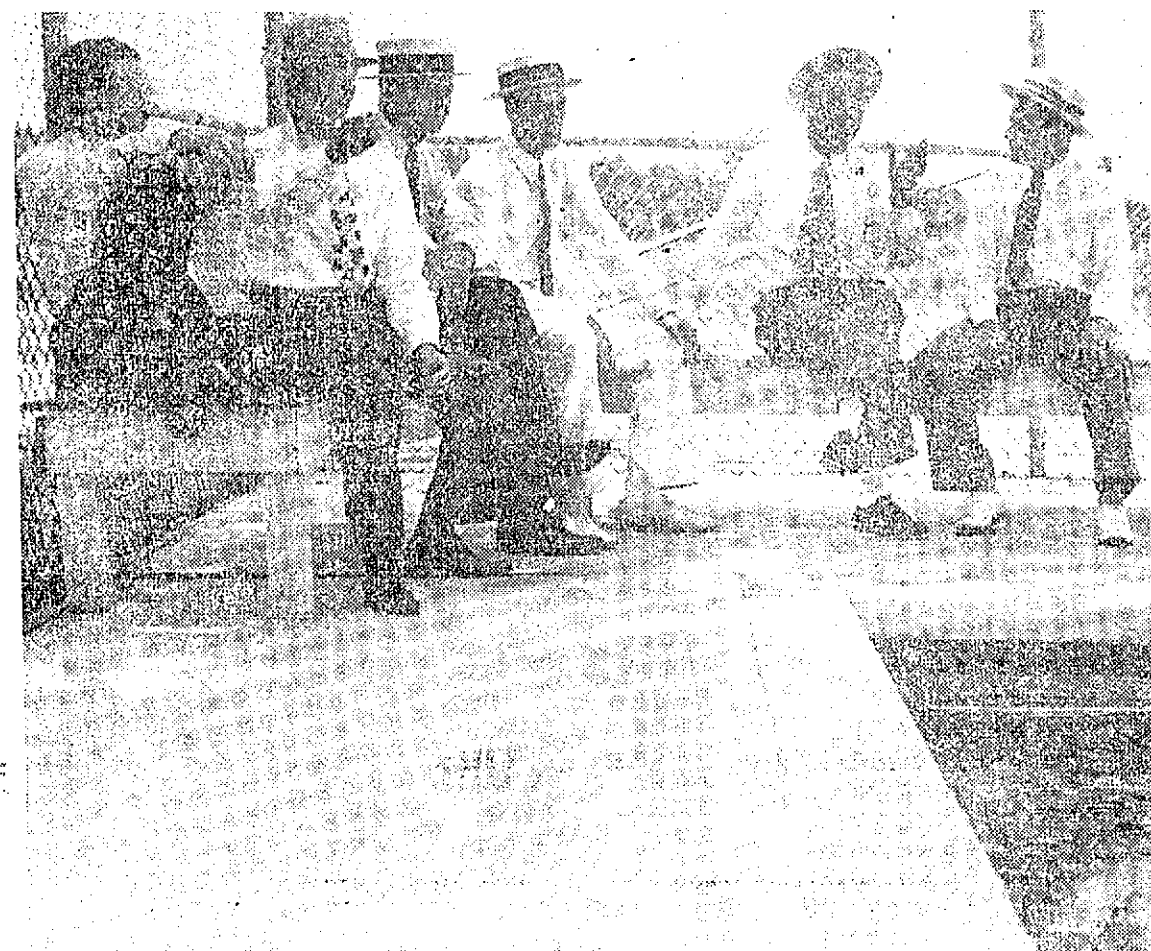

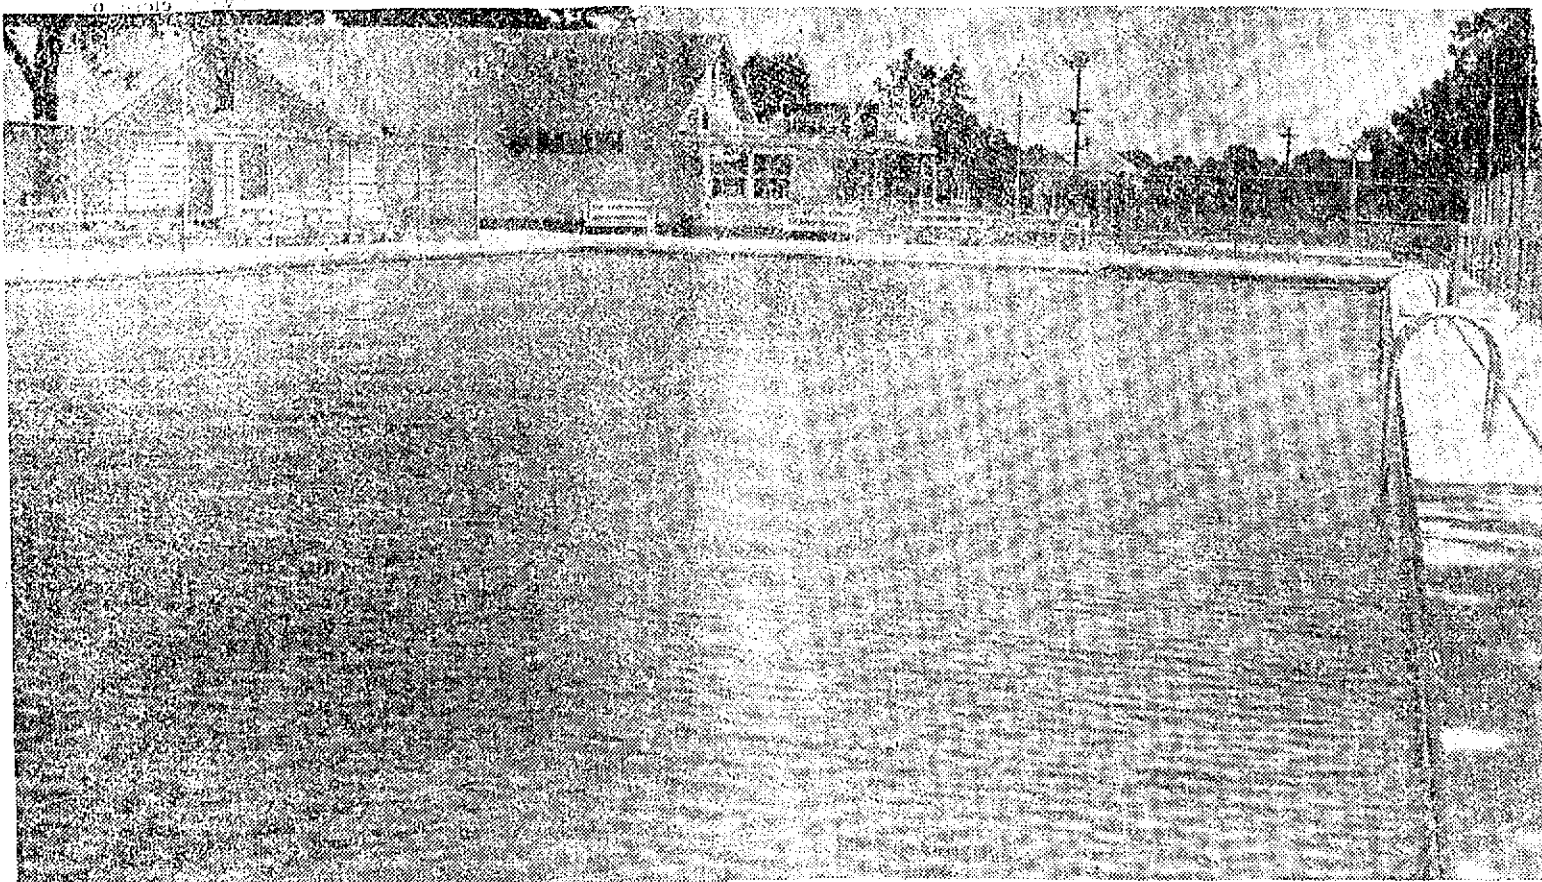

"We know that none of the cases developed paralysis. But we have no reports that the diagnoses were checked thoroughly to make certain that the polio virus was present."

Furthermore, he continued, there may be different types of polio. This drug — if it is proved to be beneficial — may help in only certain cases.

Karel said that both the sci-

Monticello Municipal Pool and Hope Delegation Which Inspected It When Starting Local Plans 11 Years Ago

—Hope Star photos

These pictures never have been published before, and from the years that they languished in The Star's photo file it looked like they never would be.

What happened was this: Mr. Washburn and Mr. Young, both former residents of El Dorado, carried on an agitation here for a public swimming pool, pointing out the case of Monroe, La., where a plant pool had proved to be a great trade attraction for the city that has just south of El Dorado.

About 1937 the federal government indicated it would entertain proposals for loans to construct municipal swimming pools as self liquidating projects. What Hope needed then was a pattern to go by, and Roy Anderson put the local folks in touch with some acquaintances in Monticello, which had recently completed a modern pool.

The Hope delegation, including city councilmen and others, drove over to Monticello, met the mayor of that city, inspected the pool, and viewed the older public pool in Pine Bluff before returning to Hope.

Back in Hope a group of 13 men and women, with Ed F. McFadden, then an associate justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court, met at the city hall shortly after this trip, put down one dollar apiece and organized a non-profit venture to be known as The Star recalls, as the Hope Natatorium Corporation.

The records of this old group of about 14 years ago are unavailable. They are not shown in the files of the county clerk's office at the courthouse, and the original venture came to nothing when the federal government suddenly struck swimming pools out of the list of projects that it would finance by self liquidating loans.

But the agitation continued, in Star columns, and in public discussions, and in 1947 a new venture was organized, this time by the Hope Natatorium Corporation, which had been organized in 1937.

That was it, the new corporation, and the first swimming pool built in Hope was the result of the new venture.

The new corporation, headed by E. P. Young, who is now in the city of Hope, was organized in 1947, and the first swimming pool built in Hope was the result of the new venture.

Postman Wins Trip But Likes Home the Best

New York, Aug. 3 — (UP) — Andrew J. McKnight, 30, a letter writing postman who won a free trip to New York, stood in the middle of a $100-a-day hotel suite today with a private bar and gold telephones.

"I would rather live in Mar-freesboro, Tenn.," McKnight said in a slow drawl.

McKnight is grey-haired, six feet tall and lanky. He has twinkling blue eyes, a drawl and a plump, black-haired wife whom he calls "girl."

On their first day in New York, Mr. and Mrs. McKnight:

Went to the top of the Empire State Building.
Went to the top of Radio City.
Went shopping for their eight daughters.

Went to bed.
It was an oversized bed with a dark green braided silk cover in a two-tone forest green and lime-colored room with red leather chairs. Mrs. McKnight chose it over a pale orchid bedroom with twin beds at the other end of their five-room suite.

The McKnights were married 25 years ago and he went to work the next day, hugging the rail on foot over an 18-mile route.

"I'm going to get a job inside the postoffice, I hope," McKnight said. "I've worn out my feet, and now I'll wear out my seat."

He won the free week in New York with a plaintive line, "a real

Dallas Women Rebel Against Meat Prices

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 3. —(UP)—The Dallas "beltcoat rebellion" against high meat prices spread today to at least four other towns in Texas, the state that prides itself as the seat of the cattle industry.

The rebellion was started by Mrs. R. D. Vaughn, a gray-haired, 64-year-old grandmother who hated to be robbed in Dallas markets.

For the second straight day, she sat at her telephone manufacturing a chain telephone campaign to enlist women in a one-week meat boycott. By tonight, she expected to have enough women volunteers to call all 320 pages in the local directory.

In making their calls, the women asked other housewives to "please refrain from buying any fresh meat" during the week beginning Monday.

"We think this strike is the only way to find out what is causing those outrageous prices," Mrs. Vaughn said. "If the butcher or the farmer squeals, then the blame should be on them."

Mrs. Vaughn, who stands just one inch over five feet, is president of the Dallas Women's Chamber of Commerce. Formerly she sold insurance.

Her rebellion started when Dallas women praised her for a newspaper interview in which she first advocated a buyer's strike.

Today the strike spread to Orange, Austin, Waco and Corpus Christi.

Lloyd King, manager of three large Orange stores, told the women that if they mean business, "we'll close our markets; we're not making any profit on meats anyway."

Mrs. Vaughn slipped into a market yesterday to watch her campaign in action.

"A dozen women came up but only one bought beefsteak," she said. "Another bought cold cuts and the rest bought mostly salt pork and bacon."

One Dallas butcher learned about the campaign first hand.

A woman shopper marched up to the counter, thrust her shopping list before his eyes and said: "See—no meat."

West Yellowstone, Mont. —(AP)—Yellowstone park is full of bears but Percy Myers of West Yellowstone offered $25 for the return of four, stolen by burglars. The animals, valued at $800, were different from others in the territory. They were stuffed.

Take Your Postman's Advice on SHOES...

"Tramping all day with a pack like Santa Claus, I have to give my feet all the breaks I keep several pairs of shoes always in repair, so I can have dry feet—give them a change and rest when they get tired or chafed. It keeps me on the job—saves me dollars in shoe wear."

Our expert repair service makes over your shoes like new—saves money too.

The more promptly you bring them in when you need service, the better the appearance of the finished job, the less it will cost and the more it will save you.
